Green Shopping & Green Gift Giving Guide!

Think of an alternative to buying a product, such as renting a DVD instead of buying it. Shopping with the environment in mind will conserve resources. Instead of buying disposable products, which are wasteful, buy things that will last a long time, such as rechargeable batteries and reusable cloth bags for groceries and plastic mugs for drinks.

Buying things that have been used before means eco friendly. If the item is still reusable such as retro clothes, room accessories, and even sports equipment online @ eBay Auctions and at your local thrift store. Shop online or at local stores to buy used CDs and books @ Half.com. Buy green smart.

Another way to save resources and energy is to swap with friends and family instead of buying brand-new products. Maybe you and your friends like the same video games. Why not share your games instead of each of you owning the same game? Or maybe you can rent the game first to see if you really want to own it.

Green Gift Giving Ideas!

1. Make a gift of any service

You will still reduce material consumption by giving a service of any kind. Such as making a gift of DVD rental service, Netflix or Blockbuster, GameFly game rentals, Itunes download service or Kindle wireless books and Audible Books download service.

Give a gift of house cleaning gift service or babysitting service and give a friend or family member some free time. Think of a house cleaning gifts for someone celebrating a new home, new baby, retirement or job change. Or, think of them for birthdays, anniversaries and holidays.

2. Give a consumable gift

Your friend will love your consumable gift twice: once while enjoying the gourmet teas, gourmet coffee, fresh flowers, baked cookies, flavored popcorn, fresh or dried fruits and nuts, gift baskets or other consumable gift; and again when they appreciate that your gift leaves them with no guilty conscience about a gift left unused in the corner of their closet.
